

From: Philip Schiller [REDACTED]
To: Ron Okamoto [REDACTED] Emily Blumsack [REDACTED] C.K. Haun
[REDACTED] Shoemaker [REDACTED]
CC:
BCC:
Subject: Fwd: Please help - Why is Apple Treating a Developer Like This Attachments:
Sent: 09/05/2013 01:49:39 AM 0000 (GMT)

Privileged and Confidential

FYI

Begin forwarded message:

From: Tim Cook [REDACTED]
Subject: Fwd: Please help - Why is Apple Treating a Developer Like This
Date: September 4, 2013 at 12:31:09 PM PDT
To: Phil Schiller [REDACTED]

Sent from my iPad

Begin forwarded message:

From: [REDACTED]
Date: September 4, 2013 at 6:14:24 AM PDT
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: Please help - Why is Apple Treating a Developer Like This

Dear Tim

My name is [REDACTED] and I'm one of the founders of KnowledgeRocks - a company that deals with music, education and technology.

We are developing products for the Apple Platform and have now submitted our latest application to the iOS review team following 3 years of development.

We have been originally rejected in May as our in-app store was too similar to Apple's own app store, and have immediately redesigned our store fine tuning it to the published guidelines.

Since re-submitting the application in June, we have been rejected again for the same reason, although our team has made the upmost effort to differentiate our store from Apple's own.

Although we have communicated for the past 3 month with your review team, and illustrated that your guidelines have been met, we have had nothing but promises to clarify the latest rejection. We have also escalated this to a full dispute, but not heard from the app-review team with any explanation of why our latest design is offensive.

The last communication from the app review board was to say the we will get a reply within 7 working days, which again we did not.

We have a very promising product, which is based on a US patent we own, and is done in conjunction with Faber Music, one of UK's largest sheet music publishers.

PX-2194.1

We really don't understand why Apple is treating us with such lack of respect, while we assume that our goals should be the same - to make business using Apple products.

We have tried any imaginable way to get some feedback and help us to release this product. In desperation I'm writing to you directly hoping that something can be done to resolve this unfortunate situation.

Thanks in advance.

Kind Regards

Director
KnowledgeRocks Limited

KnowledgeRocks Ltd
<http://knowledgerocks.com>

Do you Like Knowledge Rocks on Facebook? Or Follow us on Twitter?

Confidentiality/misdelivery: This email and the information contained in it and any attachments are confidential for the use only of the intended recipient(s) in accordance with the proper purpose for which the email is sent. The contents of this email may also be legally privileged. If you are not an intended recipient, you must not print, record, use, rely on, forward or disclose this communication or any information in it in any way. If you have received this email in error please immediately: (1) notify KnowledgeRocks by telephone (number above) or by return email; and (2) destroy/delete from your computer systems this email, your return email to me and all copies of these emails.

Email risk/no liability: As an electronic communication, this email and its contents cannot be guaranteed to be secure, free from alteration or error, unaffected by virus or delivered when or otherwise as intended. The sender does not accept any responsibility or liability for any loss, damage or other consequences arising from any event which may occur due to any of these (or any other) inherent risks of email security and reliability. Reliance on this email is at the recipient's own risk.

KnowledgeRocks Ltd. Registered in England and Wales Registration no. 7225926 Registered address: 99 Wey Hill, Haslemere, Surrey, GU27 1HT